and private reputation; but his past record could not save him from the consequences of his crime; he was arrested by a Democratic officer on the complaint of a Democrat; was prosecuted by a Democrat, before a Democratic judge and jury.

Adjoining Maryland is the great Republican state of Pennsylvania, one of whose Senators is chairman of the national Republican party, and as such did more than any other man to install the present administration. Senator Gray was, a few years ago, treasurer of Pennsylvania, and it has been charged by financially responsible newspapers and by men of character and influence, that he stole over a quarter of a dollar of the state's money. He has not denied to deny the charge, has taken no steps to disprove it, and his party has done nothing in the premises. The other day the Pennsylvania Republicans held a convention for the nomination of candidates for office, when QUAY demanded that one of his lieutenants be given the chief place on the ticket. The delegates complied and DELAMATER was nominated for governor, posing as the confessed tool of the ex-treasurer over whose head hangs the accusation of theft.

Could a better illustration be furnished of the character of two parties?

MORGAN is trying to exterminate the English sparrow. It pays a bounty on the heads of the little nuisance, and thus furnishes employment and money for the boys, but it said that the birds increase faster than before the bounty law went into effect.

A SUFFERING public will be glad when the street car companies, the sewer ranges and the gas main men stop tearing up the streets, and the supervisor has the bulldozers gathered up and carted away.

"A GLORIOUS Fourth. Three men killed and five children maimed. A little girl burned to a crisp." These are the cheering and patriotic headlines over an account in the local paper of the Fourth in a Georgia town. Some men's ideas of what makes a thing "glorious" are peculiar.

THE OTHER DAY CHAUNCEY I. FILLEY, a Republican boss of Missouri, expressed his opinion that the party would carry the state next fall. Ten days ago the Republicans held their convention, and in view of the manifest fact that it would be a waste of time and money to even make a campaign it was resolved not to put a ticket in the field. Evidently FILLEY talks at random occasionally.

THE HOLLOWNESS OF IT.

The hollowness of the Liberal free school cry was exposed in the Tenth school district a few years ago. The Liberals there had been howling for a better schoolhouse and for a free school, and denouncing the Mormons for standing in the way of the advance movement. Finally, when the people of the district thought they were able to bear the expense, the question of voting the tax upon themselves was raised, and the Liberals professed to be in favor of it almost up to the time of the election; then they flinched, and did their utmost to defeat the tax. The Mormons, however, who were in the majority and owned the far greater part of the property, stood by the progressive movement and carried it through. The Liberals, defeated at the polls in a fair contest which they had precipitated, continued their opposition by an organized resistance to the payment of the tax. The matter was carried into the courts where the Liberals contributed money to employ lawyers to beat the free school for which they had been so clamorous when they thought there was nothing in the cry beyond a chance to abuse the Mormons. Only after the courts had decided against them, and they could resist no longer, did they submit, and then with the meanness possible grace.

THE HERALD recites the circumstances now merely for the purpose of exposing the shallowness of the Liberal profession regarding free schools and better schools. Only when and where they could control the schools have they favored improvement or willingly borne their equitable portion of the cost. If they did not believe that they could capture the city and make the schools subject to their dictation and rule, they would not have been standing out against free schools and the men on the stump would be fighting a Mormon proposition for better school houses and more and better schools.

THE NEW YORK PRESS, commenting on the phenomenal growth in the west since 1880 as shown by the census, remarks that "the west had the room to grow in."

THE HERALD believes that if the compromise silver bill shall pass in less than a year the popular outcry against it will be something appalling in the ears of the trading politicians who accepted the measure.

"THE CENSUS is not worth half its cost," says a journal published in a town where the population claimed did not materialize when the enumerators made their rounds. If all the enumerators had been like those of San Francisco who padded the schedules, this would have been a glorious census.

NOW WE can boom the climate again; that is to say, we could have boomed it on Thursday, which was like a day in early June.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever afterwards holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold, or any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time or money refunded. Trial bottles free at A. C. Smith & Co.'s drug store.

It was a telling shot which the Pittsburg Leader fired into the ranks of the Republican party of Pennsylvania, as reported in THE HERALD dispatches on Thursday morning. The incident cited illustrates the character of the two great political parties of the nation. Maryland is a Democratic state, and from time immemorial has been ruled by that party. A few weeks ago it was discovered that the state treasurer, STEPHENSON ARCHER, had been appropriating the public money to his own use, and was a defaulter for a large sum. The discovery was followed promptly by his arrest, although he was lying sick at the time. He was nursed into health, then tried, convicted and sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. ARCHER had been a leader in the Democratic party, was at one time chairman of the state committee and had borne an excellent public and private reputation; but his past record could not save him from the consequences of his crime; he was arrested by a Democratic officer on the complaint of a Democrat; was prosecuted by a Democrat, before a Democratic judge and jury.
